

Dear Friends and Family,

This summer I have an amazing opportunity to travel with Partnership International on a missions trip. We will be proclaiming God's life-changing message of hope through community outreach events, through work projects to improve local communities, and through medical clinics. Our group will be working with local churches and organizations to leave a lasting imprint on the communities we will serve.

I am very excited about this missions trip, and I would like to invite you to be a part of what God will do during my week of ministry. First, would you commit to pray for me and the other team members? We are trusting that God will do great things in our hearts and through our efforts during this trip. Second, would you consider giving a financial contribution toward my trip expenses? I am responsible for raising my own funds to cover the cost of this trip. Any amount you could give would be greatly appreciated! I have included an addressed and stamped envelope with this letter for your convenience.

Thank you for taking the time to read this letter, and for investing in my potential for God's kingdom.

Sincerely,

PLEASE NOTE . . .

This letter is intended to be a starting point for you. You should personalize it with the following details:

- Your trip destination and exact dates
- More details on what you will be doing on your missions trip
- The exact cost of your trip (including passport expenses and other incidentals)
- A personal greeting and message
